Senior/Future Academy:

Students from Senior Academy took up a very serious concern facing our environment, Hydraulic Fracturing, also known as Hydrofracking. Hydrofracking is a way of getting natural gas out of rocks underground by taking millions of gallons of water, infusing it with chemicals and pumping it into the ground. A film called Gasland by Josh Fox, portrays the negative impact Hydrofracking has on an environment. Fracking in some areas have been shown to contaminate water with hazardous levels of methane gas, heavy metals, radioactive material and other toxic chemicals. Students from Senior Academy wrote letters and even emailed Bob Turner, a representative in Congress to express their concerns on this issue. Send a letter to Governor Cuomo to voice your concern about his procedure during the public comment period, which is before January 11th 2012. You can go to www.citizenscampaign.org/campaigns/hydro-fracking.asp for more information on how to voice your concern.
